

We are looking for talent

Are you a great Field Applications & Service Engineer? Just perfect!

We are looking for a talented person to fulfil the Europe-based position of Field applications and service engineer to sustain our current and future European operations.

Are you this important person we are looking for?

As the Europe Field Applications & Service Engineer, the person we are looking for will take a leading role in all of the company's technical interventions in Europe and most importantly assure customer satisfaction. His main responsibilities will be:

- Lead installations and service calls for customers, trials and qualifications testing throughout Europe. Field support assistance provided but the candidate must be able to perform these tasks by himself ;
- Provides European customers with the highest quality service possible ;
- Assist EU sales team with in-depth technical knowledge ;
- Maintain strong communications channel between customers and company head office.

The talented person we are looking for has a technical education with at least 5 years in a customer-facing position and field experience. The required profile includes:

- Technical education (Computer or electrical engineering, or computer science degree) ;
- At least 5 years in a customer-facing position and field experience (field applications, service and support, product management) ;
- Experience in R&D an asset ;
- Customer-oriented, dedicated, self-starter, must be able to work autonomously ;
- Knowledge of Linux or Unix environment ;
- Experience or knowledge of the transportation security industry dynamics;
- Excellent people's and communications skills.

A few words on Optosecurity Inc.

Founded in 2003 and based in Quebec City (Canada), Optosecurity Inc. is a leader in next-generation detection of physical threats. Optosecurity is a world-class threat detection technology company offering innovative security software for the Transportation, in particular airports, and Critical Infrastructure markets.

Certiés Type C LEDES par l'UE, the XMS[®] and OptoScreener[®] developed by Optosecurity are the most advanced liquid threat detection technology for X-ray in the industry. Based on advanced material science and intelligent 3D computer vision, our breakthrough automated threat detection solutions transform the common checkpoint X-ray equipment of today into a precise automated threat detection system, with in-line assistance in the detection of liquid explosives, chemical threats, bottles and firearms.

An innovative and dynamic company, Optosecurity hires close to 40 employees. The company uses creative and non conventional technologies offering its employees the most interesting challenges, in an exciting, stimulating and innovative family-ambiance work environment. Optosecurity offers a competitive remuneration package.

Do you recognize yourself? This challenge sounds interesting to you?
Please contact us.

hr@optosecurity.com | www.optosecurity.com